

A TRAIL OF BURNT PAPER: EVENTS

Monday 20th

Forbidden Books Launch Night

Free Entry

Doors open 7.30pm

Come and celebrate the launch of Forbidden Books on the first night of the festival with the launch of 'A Trail of Burnt Paper' by Paul Knight. The evening's proceedings will include a harp rendition by The Dim Goddess, live literature performances by the deliciously decadent Sarah Jane Russell and Mooncalf Curios as well as a performance by the stunning and spellbinding My Dark Aunt, who will be your headline act for the evening. Arrive early for surprise give-aways and promo goodies!

Tuesday 21st

A Story Short

£3 Entry

Doors open 7.30pm

Mooncalf Curios and Forbidden Books present an evening of short fiction and performance poetry. The evening will include readings by Sarah Jane Russell - with live illustration by the inimitable Laurie Pink. Also expect a reading by Mooncalf Curios Paul Knight and live music from Anarcho-Art-Folkists Spidermilk- 'Music which enriches as only eight legs and calcium can'. We are also very excited to present a reading by internationally renowned author Toby Litt and will be rounding off the evening in fine style with a performance by 4Talent winner Luke Wright, whose one man shows have made him a regular fixture at the Edinburgh Fringe as well as the compère of the poetry tent at the Glastonbury Festival, amongst other very fine things- "Simply the very best young performance poet around"- The Observer.

Wednesday 22nd

Soapbucket

£3 Entry

Doors open 7.30pm

Soapbox Promotions and Mooncalf Curios are devilishly excited to present a very special and somewhat freakish one-off. Soapbucket will feature a musical performances by by Norwich's Premier Loungecore Sensation 'The Ferries', the incredible death-jazz of Gary Hatecrime, the beautiful and harmonious Sula Mae tinkling the ivories and a world exclusive performance by Stuart Harrington and Jay Howell featuring live musical performance alongside live projected video art, as well as poetry from the very excellent Tim Clare... Get in the Soapbucket!

Thursday 23rd

The Throat Garden III

£3 Entry

Doors open 7.30pm

Mooncalf Curios and Forbidden Books present The Throat Garden III- the latest installment of our performance writing event. This time, the frankly stellar line-up includes the multi award winning poet Alison Dunne, 'Secret Agent Artist' Lydia Towsey and a reading by a very special mystery guest poet- we can't wait! The evening will also include an exclusive excerpt from "Omiai: Looking at Each Other"- a brand new duologue by Ed Harkness.

"Throat Garden? What would a throat garden be like? I think it would glisten and jabber darkly and might smell a bit like raw beef..." - Nathan Hamilton, Eggbox Publishing

Friday 24th

The Last Judgement

£3 Entry

Doors open 7.30pm

Mooncalf Curios and Now or Never Magazine present 'The Last Judgement' an evening of anarchic spoken word jesting- we have scoured the very depths of the comedy underground to bring you performances of an ascerbic and mordant nature by Patrick Lappin (whose show 'The Mid-90's La-La-La' was a notable success at the Edinburgh Fringe this year), Lorcan McGrane from the Laugh Out Loud Comedy Club, the incisive and poetic Robert Jackman, the foul-mouthed and perverse Jez Wooden and finally the indescribable cosmic abnormality that is Ricky Wicked (of Southends favourite prog-jazz-core outfit Archimedes Deathray. All of the above will be hosted by Mooncalf Curios Paul Knight, and the evening will be headlined in fine style with music from Norfolk's only folk-punk supergroup 'The Mustard City Rockers'.

The Last Judgement will be a one night stand you may never forget...

Remember to pick up a copy of 'Now or Never!' everybody's favourite anarchist magazine at the venue!

Saturday 25th

The Hellfire Ball Part III-

'The Church of Starry Wisdom'

£5 Entry

Doors open 7.30pm

Forbidden Books and Mooncalf Curios present The Hellfire Ball Part III- 'The Church of Starry Wisdom'. This years Hellfire ball, on the final night of the festival is to be an experimental evening of sound collage and audio sculpture inspired by the weird fiction of H.P. Lovecraft. Featuring performances by Dub-Sculptor Mr. Tree, sound art from London based live literature and dubstep crossover pioneers Konstruct, Mooncalf Curios Jonaphang and Grandmaster Flesh b2b, a live performance by the mighty BK & Dad and finally culminating in a working aural version of the apocalypse from breakcore sadist Nod-E. Expect visions of horror and tricks of the light from Mooncalf Curios Fingerhuman.

Dresscode: Mutant Cultist